

The Cosmic Doctrine

How Communication Was Effected

Record Date: 04/29/2026

Part 2

In the introduction of the Cosmic Doctrine, we spoke about how Dion Fortune was able to open a channel to the Higher Planes, which are the inward, deeper context of aspects of ourself that normally the conscious mind does not really access or has to create a strong union with the subconscious in order to have that response from the Higher Planes.

In this lecture, Dion Fortune has this clear channel now open and is able to contact other entities who explain very clearly some concepts dealing with telepathy and how the common man has difficulty with thought-forms, so it is a very interesting read.

This is an extension of the introduction, but lets get started with the reading and then we will discuss thought-forms and how these energies are very real and in a sense, even though they may not seem physical and we cannot see them with our eyes and use our senses, we can feel them.

This Teacher is actually explaining very clearly if we can comprehend what is being said, then we can understand why our thoughts are so powerful.

A statement by one of the communicating entities.

Communication is performed by telepathy, that is all. Precisely the same means are used in transferring thought from a discarnate mind to an incarnate mind as are employed in transferring thought between two incarnate minds.

Basically, when we are talking to each other, it appears very real and is very real. What appears as we are talking to ourselves, we are talking to discarnate minds, other thought-forms on different planes of existence.

We can discern and understand what is coming through and actually pay attention to these thoughts because they will reveal deeper meanings every single time.

Certain technical difficulties exist, however, and to make it clear, we will first explain how thought is transferred between incarnate minds.

Briefly, a thought-form is built by methods we will not enter upon now and this thought-form is ensouled by a substance from a plane above that upon which it is constructed.

This makes a living thing of its type.

We could say that we are in a constant flow and connected state with our higher mind, our higher self.

It is then cast off from the aura of its creator and in an ordinary way, will hang about in his atmosphere.

If he is dwelling on the subject, a thread of subtle matter will connect it with his vehicle and those who can see it will perceive these thought-forms, either embedded in the aura awaiting expulsion, or hovering around like children's kites upon shorter and longer strings up to about 12 feet long these strings may be.

As he moves, they stream out behind and above him, and as he stands, they hover around, endued each with life of their own, and they endure as definite entities until they form in which they ensouled wears out and falls away.

Whereupon the life that is within them is reabsorbed into the substance of their creator.

Here we have an individual who creates a thought-form, which is an entity, a living energy, sort of like a kite that is hovering in the aura around the aura of the individual, which releases a type of radiation, an attraction, which other thought-forms will be attracted to and are connected to other individuals and that is how people come in and out of our life.

The stronger the thought-form, the more attracted those other thought-forms will come in like kites flying towards the original thought and that is how a small collective will come together.

This is just on the physical plane, but on the higher planes, the thought-forms are actually what are guiding the individuals.

This is how cultures are built on a large scale because of the powerful ideas and thoughts that collaborate together and come to an agreement and build neighborhoods and cities and countries.

That is how cultures are manifested on a larger scale throughout linear time.

So much for the undirected thought to which no attention is paid, should however a thought be conceived in relation to a definite object, then it will have a dual relationship.

Firstly to the person conceiving it, and secondly to the object of his thought, and instead of remaining in the neighborhood of the former, it will be directed to the neighborhood of the latter, there to hover, though still connected with the originator by a tenuous thread, colored according to type.

We can use color as emanations and even energy types, or think of the ten Planets within astrology, they have their assigned colors, the ten Sephiroth on the Tree of Life has its colors, Tarot has its colors and all each have the expressive attributions affiliated with it.

Having arrived in the neighborhood of its object, it impinges on the aura beating out the rhythm with which it is endowed.

Here we are talking about movement and rhythm, as you know, rhythm and geometrical form are closely associated.

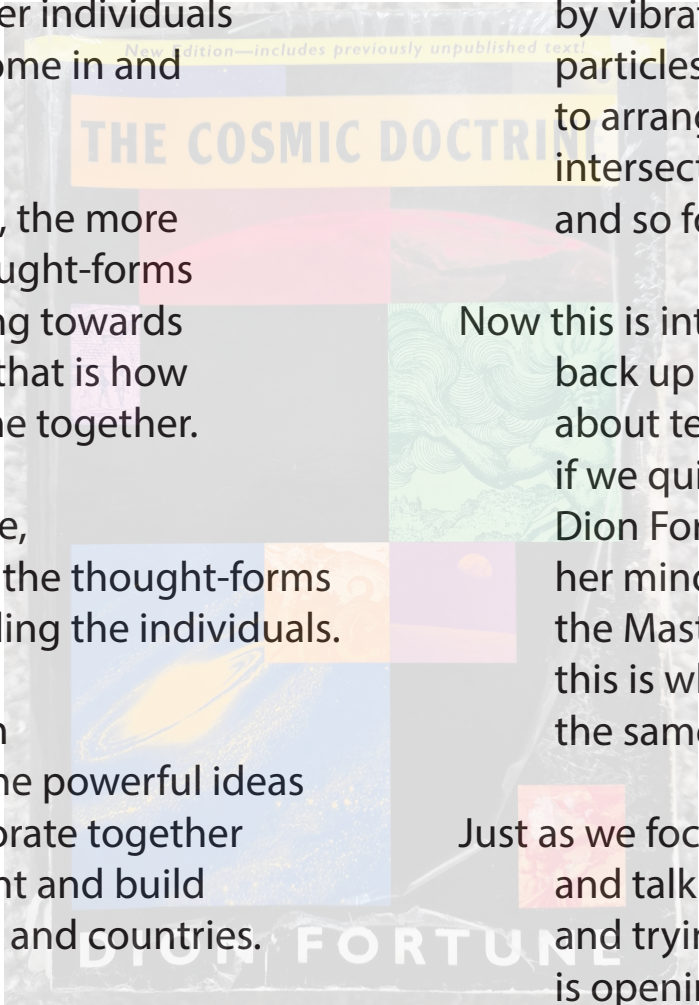

Thus a note of particular tune produced by vibrating the edge of a disc will cause particles of sand scattered upon the disc to arrange themselves along the intersecting lines of force, thus generated and so form patterns.

Now this is interesting because if we back up a little bit and we are talking about telepathy within discarnate minds, if we quieten our minds, such as Dion Fortune practiced while training her mind to contact who she called the Masters on these Higher Planes, this is what happens when we do the same thing.

Just as we focus on the Cosmic Doctrine and talking about it and working with it and trying to comprehend it, the channel is opening, the kites are flying above which are thought-forms.

These thought-forms are breaking through and penetrating to the Higher Planes in order for that connection to be made.

Once that connection is made, it does not mean that we have contact because the connection established could be like a static radio, but there has to be a clear connection where these Higher Planes can communicate and use the symbols that are already organized and established within our mind.

That is key and very important because a lot of the ideas, the higher ideas within what we would call the Unknown that is for beneficial for the evolution of Humanity and consciousness may not come across as being understood.

That analogy given here is that the particular tone produced can be similar to sand on a disc that vibrates and then it aligns with the frequency of that track within the disc or it creates a track and then it becomes arranged and organized.

So if the particles composing the body corresponding to that particle plane upon the thought-form is projected, can be caused to vibrate to the rhythm emanated by that thought-form.

The particles can be the cellular structure within our body and also the molecular arrangement within our mind.

All of the organization will occur if we are persistent and continue with our thought-forms and connect to the vibrational rhythm that we are attempting to connect with.

For example, if we want to connect (and this is probably an extreme, but it is very real) our thought-forms that are created are orbiting around the energetic collective of Adonis, which is outside of our Galactic Core and we have those thought-forms created already that are going to attract that energetic connection, that attraction, and we are going to draw it in, especially if we are persistent.

This is what Dion Fortune did and what she said in her introduction where for ten days she dwelled on making contact with the Masters.

Those thought-forms were created, they grew, they were nourished, and the connection was made. She trained her mind.

We can do the same thing from outside our Galactic Core to inside our Galaxy, to within our Solar Logos, and most importantly, to our Planetary Logos.

We are here in physical form on our Planet so those thought-forms that are projected toward our Planet are very important when it comes to healing and responding to ourself and to others because that magnetism will create expansion when we are projecting into it which can be positive polarity or negative polarity.

These particles will be arranged along the lines of the force thus set up and the corresponding form created within the vehicle.

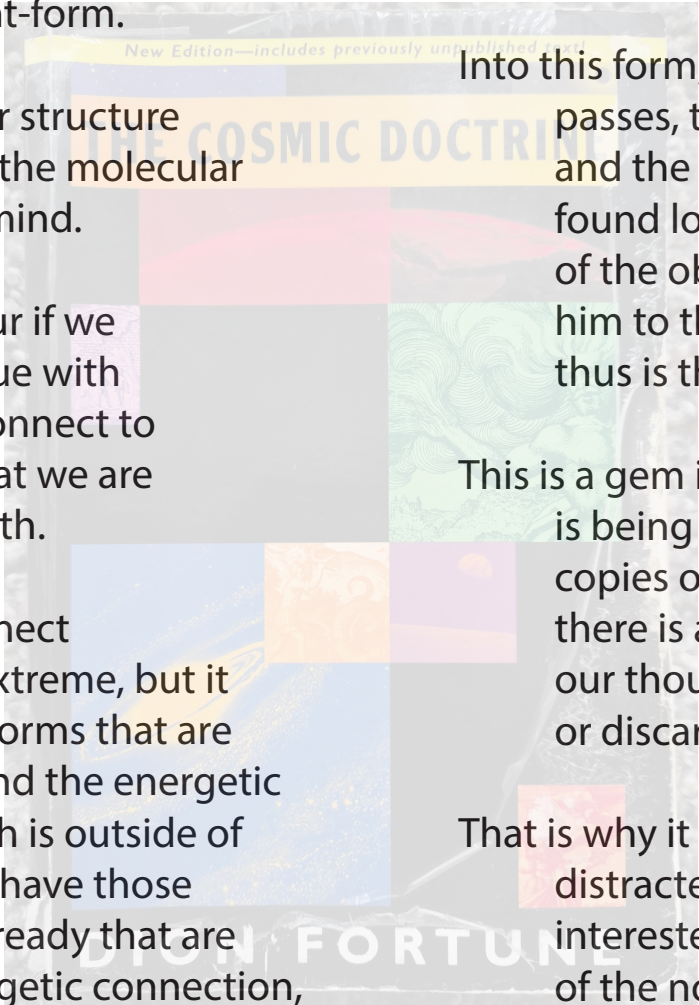

Into this form, the life of the old form passes, the old form falls to pieces and the tenuous thread has then found lodgement within the being of the object of the thought, linking him to the originator of the thought, thus is thought-transference done.

This is a gem if understood, basically what is being said is that our thoughts are copies of another thought, in a sense, there is a stream, a thread that connects our thoughts to other thoughts, incarnate or discarnate.

That is why it is a good idea to not be distracted a lot by what we are not interested in here on Earth because of the noise that it creates within our mind and we become very disorganized.

At the same time, when we understand universal principles, then that is what we can project out as our thought-forms here on the third density physical plane.

Within this reading, we are taking our thought-forms and growing them into a way that connects to the original thought-form.

For example, my Higher Self has created 900,000 fragments of Its consciousness and I am just one fragment incarnated in form.

My Higher Self had the Original Thought and the Divine Plan to use those 900,000 fragments in order to learn whatever it is to learn and to explore and to create experiences within that unit of consciousness.

I am just one unit of consciousness but now I have this thought-form of what I just said and it will connect with my Higher Self and then, as the reading said, the old form of me, which I thought was ruled by the personality and the Earthy ego falls away, falls to pieces, and now the lodgement within myself is created.

This is another way that where healing is automatically because once we expand our consciousness and grow our consciousness in a healthy way, then we are able to learn these concepts with universal principles and the thought-transference that comes from our Higher Knowing, we can just ask and collaborate more, we could work with the Angels, however we want to perceive it.

It is a simple matter to transfer thought upon the 2nd and 3rd planes, thereby generating moods in the minds of the object of thoughts, these moods being of some duration, but it is a very different matter to transfer thought upon the 4th and 5th planes.

The 4th plane is the most difficult of all to work upon (emotional aspects) and work can only be done with these individuals who have learned to detach a portion of their substance and keep it in a loose and unattached condition so that it can take form in response to impacts from without.

Moreover, if ideas of any complexity are to be transmitted, it is not enough that simple images could lie loose in the mind awaiting re-combination into composite form, it is necessary that a great and complex variety of images be available.

Alright, so calm, cool and collective when it comes to emotions and moods, which is what the Entity is speaking of when emotions rule the response of an individual, then the connection, of course, is not going to be very clear.

If someone is very fearful or when there is self-denial of lack of remembrance of who we are and all of this is okay because it has to be experience.

That is what we do in physical form, but eventually we want to break from that type of response and have a detached portion of ourselves with unattached conditions so that we can hear and acknowledge the thought-forms that are coming in, so that we can transmit as transmitters.

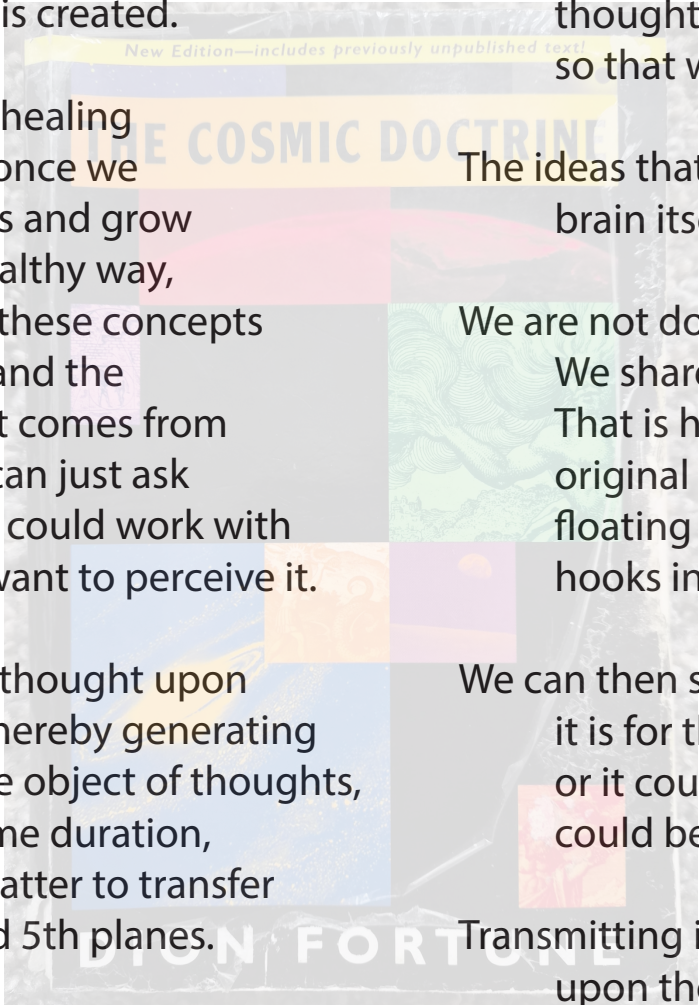

The ideas that are coming in are not the brain itself that is creating these ideas.

We are not doing it individually, We share ideas in the human collective, That is how we build together, but the original thought is in the Astral and floating around out there into one of us hooks into it and brings it down.

We can then share that idea, whether it is for the benefit of self and humanity or it could fade if not long lasting and could be more of an old belief.

Transmitting images in color and form upon the 2nd plane may be likened to writing with a phonetic alphabet, but transmitting ideas upon the third plane may be likened to writing with the ideographic alphabet, such as the Chinese use, where each idea has a corresponding symbol, and unless that symbol be known cannot be written.

Thus a Chinese scholar needs to know a very large number of picture signs if he is to express himself freely.

That is what I like about the Hebrew language is the 22 Hebrew letters, which has multiple meanings and attributions, not just sound and color, but they also have numerical value.

The English language is more superficial and is derived off the root language for the English Language is actually more idealistic and use for exploring the spiritual planes whereas the Chinese have symbols that have multiple meanings.

Now the average uncultured mind that lends itself for the transmission of messages from one plane to another has but few ideographs, and these only relate to the happenings of daily life, therefore only simple messages can be sent through him, but a mind of greater culture and caliber can transmit profound concepts.

The English language is similar to looking at a billboard and passing it by which has a generic message, but I prefer Hebrew and Sanskrit because of the depth and the heritage and the concepts that were built within those symbols that have lasted for over 8,000 to 10,000 years.

Egyptian symbols are still around if we want to explore that thought-stream and collective that is still available and accessible.

All of these attempts to culture the mind, because the reading says that the average uncultured mind does not really have a strong transmission for the thought-forms that are coming within the thought-stream.

To sum up, the mind has to contain a large and varied assortment of ideas, which the communicator causes to combine into new concepts, and it is very rare to find a mind in which there is a large assortment of ideas that is sufficiently fluidic to be used in this way.

A well stocked mind tends to combine its contents into organized complexes, and then the complexes form units which have to be stimulated as a whole and can only function according to their own nature and cannot be recombined to express new ideas.

Thus, supposing a man has strong ideas, shall we say, concerning social reform, this complex can have force poured into it and be caused to function as a whole, and that man will become a great social reformer along the lines of his preconceived notions, but he will not be able to present to the world new ideas concerning social organization.

Within the Aquarian Age, the thought-streams that are just pouring in and the idea of timelines colliding and merging, there is a lot of new ideas and changes that are happening now.

In the previous paragraph, it talked about how if a mind is found, which is very rare that has a large assortment of ideas and also fluidic, not just fixed, then when that mind (or we can say unit of consciousness) contacts these other planes, these Higher Planes with these new ideas that are wanting to come through and express through the vehicle (through the individual).

That is where the scan is occurring from these Higher Planes. We are constantly being guided and watched and scanned for the un-potentiated aspects to play through us, to become potentials and manifest these new ideas which will assist in building Humanity and the collective consciousness in a evolutionary way which benefits everyone and all, especially the One Creator who had the one Original Thought.

We could even go back to the one Original Thought with our thought-stream, with our thought-forms that we create and that is how we create that transmission and that is how we can perceive the appearances on the outside from the Unmanifest.

This is when the systematic approach will come into play but for now, we are talking about thought-forms and how powerful they really are.

We have to constantly watch our thoughts.

As soon as I think of someone, somebody, and I can visualize them and I attach an emotion to it, for example, love, then that thought-form, using the kite analogy, is alive and out there which will create an attraction.

If I think about how much I love and I create the thought-form, genuinely create the thought-form from within, deep within, from the Will of my unit of consciousness, feel the vibration come up, ground it to the Earth of how much I love my city that I am living in, then that thought-form will manifest and be very much alive with the focus reflecting down or attracting the other thought-forms or repelling the other thought forms.

We will learn about those concepts in the Cosmic Doctrine, but as a reminder, this is not the Dion Fortune teaching these concepts and these are our most likely Blue Ray Masters who are delegated and work with the Most Wise on the Blue Ray, the Hermetic Ray.

Now concerning those who transmit the messages, they exist upon all the planes of manifestation, and if an individual have free-moving matter in the vehicle corresponding to any plane, it can be molded into the form of that plane.

Thus, if he have ears, he can hear upon the physical plane, and equally upon every other plane.

It depends entirely upon the presence of this unfixed matter in any vehicle.

Our beliefs are what shape our thought-forms and we have old beliefs, new beliefs, we let go of old beliefs, we become enlightened and "lighten" our load, we become more open to ideas.

That is why to travel and see the other cultures around the world and diversity will help culture the mind and open it up more, to obtain more symbols and experiences and perspectives.

Because the uncultured mind will be very linear and do the same thing every day, have the same beliefs, which is fine, there is nothing wrong with anyone because Humanity supports Humanity.

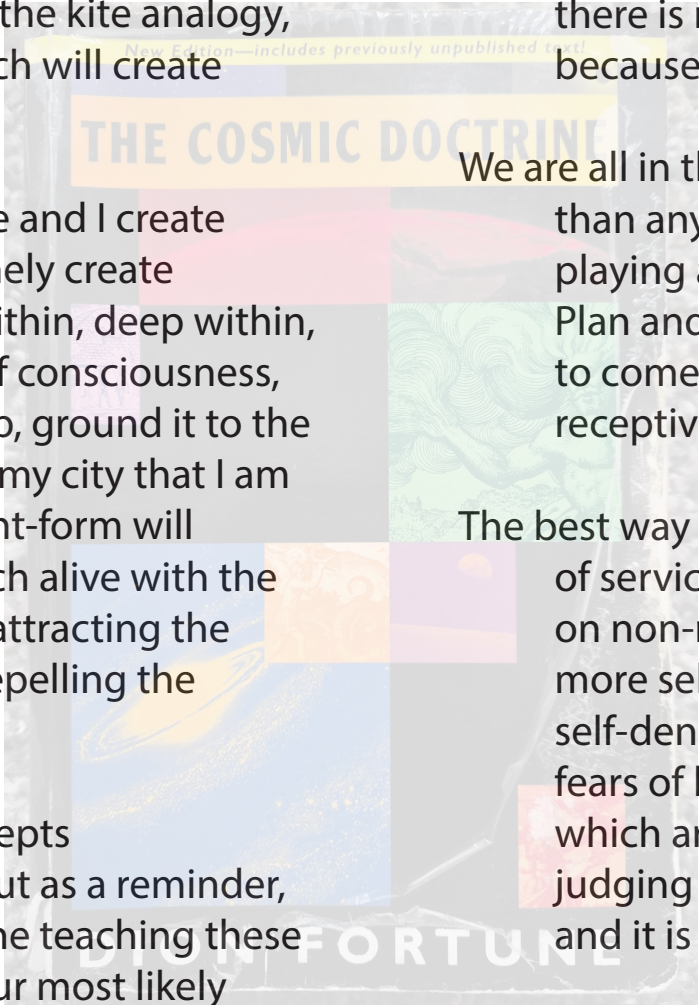

We are all in this together. No one is smarter than anyone else. We are all sort of playing a role in order for the Divine Plan and allow these thought-forms to come in, but we have to be receptive to them.

The best way to be receptive and be of service to Humanity is to not focus on non-reception, which would be the more self-centered approach of self-denial, focusing on doubt, containing fears of lack, of self-worth, or judgments which are nothing more than we are judging ourselves and projecting it out and it is being reflected back from others.

We really do have to take self-responsibility and know our part and why the choices we make is freedom of choice.

We do not have free Will, we have freedom of choice and we are attempting to free our Will because we want to be able to have self-expression in all moments and not focus on the non-reception which will contract our self-expression to a degree where we are not in reception.

We are all seeking reception, whether we know it or not.

As we have said before, if a man merely thinks concerning himself and his affairs, his thought-forms remain in his own immediate neighborhood and constitute his psychic atmosphere.

But if he thinks strongly and persistently of another person, his thought-forms will be projected to that person and affect him according to their receptivity, and it is with that the so-called dead as well as the living.

For the most part, however, their thoughts concern themselves and remain about them, but should they think strongly and persistently of any person incarnate in the body, their thought will be projected to the neighborhood of that person in exactly the same way as in telepathy between two living people.

Not many souls, however, are successful in transmitting their thoughts because a certain skill is required.

This means that even when we are thinking of our deceased loved ones or even our deceased hidden enemies, those thoughts are still connecting through the Veil, what we consider the Veil, with the so called dead and that connection is made.

Now that the dead can see more clearly because we are in this dense body with our collection of experiences and memories that is very local, if anything, we can send love to the dead.

Even though it may all be a Cosmic Joke, where it was a pre-birth intent to set the stage to be an enemy, send them love because everything is love.

All is love and if we have a desire to teach love, then this would be the best way to demonstrate how to teach love, even what we perceive is not love, such as fear, anger and hatred.

It is love, because it is just layers and layers of consciousness that we are all building upon within the Unmanifest, but where we are the manifesting.

Yeshua, within the Way of Mastery, speaks about our creativity and how we are nothing more than the white mist on a wave in the ocean.

We are riding that wave. We are the wave. We are the water. We are the Manifest and then it crashes back down as Manifested into the Unmanifest and then we are all back together again within the Unmanifest as the One.

Telepathy between two living people, telepathy between a living person and one of our deceased is the same thing, which we can actually communicate with whoever we want to.

It is our belief systems that may get in the way along with our emotions, which will contract, but if we remain receptive and allow our emotions to express themselves in that moment, without holding back, then that connection is going to be a lot stronger.

Most souls, recently dead, will visualize themselves according to their concept of themselves.

That is why the so-called ghost appears to his friends dressed as he was accustomed to be dressed, or the voice which comes through the medium resembles the voice employed by that soul in life.

It is only after the soul has long been discarnate that he no longer employs his memory of his physical likeness to build a vehicle of communication, but appears rather in formless mist, which is interpreted as draperies and is colored according to that type of force he works with.

We can use colors, we can use the Seven Rays, the colors of the Seven Chakras, but ultimately when we are no longer in form or have the body, then we drop the body, but our unit of consciousness, will retract and we actually go back to a formless mist, but a lot of times of what we call ghosts will hang around because of the attachment to the physical.

A lot of times, especially in the lower Astral plane, there can be a lot of confusion, and I know some people who actually work with those ghost who struggle in the lower Astral, who are no longer in a body.

These individuals incarnated and actually help those they see in the lower Astral more clear than most people, or majority of anyone, and they guide these lower Astral forms who most people would probably be scared of, and they guide them back to what we would call "to the Light" and help them cross over and get the healing that they need.

Now you have questioned much concerning the nature of the communicators who come to you.

They are different entities. They are what they purport to be, coming in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, they do not tell you lies about themselves.

All the same, communication may vary in accuracy and completeness.

In the present case, variation is more likely to be in completeness than in accuracy.

A lot of times we have to discern the message that comes through.

We can actually challenge the message, a lot of the others on the other side may claim to be Lord Jesus Christ and truly believe it, or that is the communication channel coming through, but it could be distorted by what we have within our mind and the thought-forms that we have, especially when emotions are attached to it.

A lot of times, the emotions that we carry, which could be consumed with fear, jealousy, anger, or a lot of the lower Chakra primal energies will attract lower Astral ghosts and hauntings because of the emotional state.

That is why we have to actually create movement within ourself and create that space and allowance so that those emotions are no longer contracted and as magnetic and pulling in a lot of the different entities that come from the lower Astral.

In other words, lower Astral can be kind of messy, where we would much rather be in the upper Astral or we have more understanding and knowingness, less ignorance and less confusion.

We all eventually get there, but while we are in physical form, it really is up to our ourselves to discern the messages that are coming through.

They impress the ideas in their mind upon the plastic matter in the mind of the medium, and she, to the best of her ability, reduces that which is impressed upon her, and as it were, acts the part of the speaker, reproducing mannerisms as well as ideas, because the transmitter visualizes his old personality in order to make contact with the Earth plane he visualizes himself as embodied in a form and speaking with his lips.

When we use our mind's eye and we can see within our thoughts who we are contacting with, it can be an old friend.

I have an old friend who has already crossed over and is hanging around and I think about him and I can see the images, I can feel him now, he actually is being supportive.

He is curious, he also enjoys watching the unfoldment that I am experiencing, and I am not so much asking for a message, but the knowing that he is there and being supportive and we are sending each other love which is all the telepathy that I need.

The medium imitates the form as well as reproducing the words because the impressions are received blended.

This is where people will be exploring and not really realize that the message is not clear coming through, and then the ego will come in and distort the message and maybe, if working with someone else, the message comes out and it just is not the original message.

A good psychic medium will be obvious, whereas a bad psychic medium will also be obvious.

Thus, the voice is the voice of Irving, but the mind is the mind of Shakespeare.

A bad actor will interpret the part badly with his own mannerisms.

He will not be able to get away from his own personality, but the great actor will express the author.

So in this case, the malleable nature of the material and the power to withdraw part of the entity ensouled, enables a sufficiently detailed and accurate impersonation to occur to enable you to distinguish people by their mannerisms, and the wide range of the mental concept enables elaborate combinations of images to be achieved.

Transmitters cannot transcend the mental content of a medium, only those ideas already in the mind can be used, but they can and do combine them into new patterns.

The last sentence is important because transmitters from Higher Planes, the ideas that are coming through the thought-stream during the connection is one thing, and then being in reception combined with the collection of images and thoughts and impressions within my subconscious and conscious mind working together, blends together.

But the original thought becomes mixed and distorted and a lot of times because we are constantly in reception, but depending on how narrow the channel is, the narrow path will determine the outcome.

In conclusion, thought forms are very real. They are entities and once we have this understanding of how the energy works, we can know that the magnetism that we create will attract not only people in our lives, but also dis-incarnations, along with Higher Plane Entities which we can contact or to open that channel, or whatever endeavor we are on.

We could be pursuing Ageless Wisdom. We could be pursuing how to make the Earth cleaner.

Of all the different levels of planes, different degrees of consciousness that are out there, we can utilize these concepts because we are training the mind and not informing it on how to be receptive.

That is really the crux of all of this talk, how can I be receptive and have that clear channel open.

Some of us, including myself, can be very rigid in our way of thinking and organizing and analytical, but that is okay, because we also have to acknowledge that a lot of the old belief systems that we use to carry are now gone.

I have replaced them with new belief systems, I have created new habits, and I am constantly trying to learn how to use my memory correctly, not so much in a linear way, but more in a parallel life way.

As I mentioned earlier with our Higher Mind, I gave the example of My fragmented consciousness into 900,000 fragments of units of consciousness that were sent to different planets, different galaxies, all for learning and experience.

That is an expansive thought that goes beyond Earthy belief systems and when we can begin to train our mind to think in these Cosmic concepts, then our awareness will open up more and we become more in tune with a lot of the higher understandings, what we would consider in physical form, higher understandings and the appreciation of Ageless Wisdoms.
