Right Use of Will

Part 2 of 27.

Divine Will

The unconditional love of the Spirit is understood by many people on Earth at this present moment.

Although, there is another energy that is also part of the Divine Creation, which has not yet been fully understood.

This other part of Divine Creation is Divine Will.

The Will expresses as feelings.

Spirit and Will are partners in the Body and must find their balance in the Heart.

If there is any dis-ease or aging of the Body, Spirit and Will are at odds in some way.

When there is balance in the Heart between the Spirit and the Will, Body manifest this internal balance as health, agelessness and vitality and the physical level of existence is no longer experienced as cut-off from other levels of existence.

Everyone on Earth today has undermined the Will in some way.

This undermining of the Will is equal to lost unconditional love for anyone who is judging against parts of the self is not truly loving unconditionally.

The Will in many people is now seeking to find alignment.

Many people on Earth can learn the balance of Spirit and Will in their Heart, which this is already moving in this direction.

It could be easily judged that the teaching of Right Use of Will is not essential and that this is just going to happen naturally.

However, help with the understanding of this process is actually necessary and some people want this help so that they can move faster.

Others who see little need to speed things up can make the choice to find this alignment later.

What may not seem necessary to you now, may become relevant at any moment.

This teaching is intended to be a guide for those who wish to speed up the process of finding the necessary balance between Spirit and Will in the Heart.

The information given here may not all be new information to you, but it will outline the steps necessary to heal the disconnections and lack of self acceptance so that balance with the Spirit can be willingly found.

It can also enable you to see where you are on this path and can help you to go further.
